WORKPLAN

This workplan will guide the development of the first Intellectual Output of the project: “Teaching Methodology for Reliable Non-Professional Education of People Older than 30”, that will be involved by each organisation participating in the project.

Description and Contents of the “Teaching Methodology”:

The aim of this Intellectual Product is to develop a teaching methodology for reliable non-professional education of people older than 30, with the involvement of each of the organisations participating in the project.

A qualitative research will be used during the development of this Methodology: the parties involved in this research will include different institutions cooperating with Stawil, as well as SSF and GLAFKA; on average, 2-3 organisations in each country, that could be:

- Associations that work for the benefit of local communities
- Universities
- Public Institutions
- Local government

The target groups involved (participants), should be between 10 and 20 people from each partner country, will also be invited to participated in the research. The aim of the research will be to identify any possible ways of reaching people who are currently not in education, but at the same time have low digital and social competencies, as well as low motivation.

Erasmus+

In addition, it will be a source of information for the different institutions dealing with adult education and the ones supporting people struggling with various problems (including social institutions). Directing the project activities to develop the most effective methods of encouraging people to enter education and creating attractive education methods for a specific group of recipients provides the deliverable obtained with a large possibility of wider use (e.g. by transferring it to organisations providing training for adults in areas other than those defined in the project, enabling transfer of competencies and/or transfer of the lessons learned to institutions from other countries). The widest possible use of the deliverable obtained will be ensured by publishing the relevant data on the websites of all organisations participating in the project, as well as the educational platform (O3 deliverable) and the EPAL platform - Erasmus +.

Considerations:

- Time frame: 01/12/2019 - 30/04/2020 (5 months)
- Final output will be available in English, Czech, Polish and Spanish
